share their ideas. This event helped youths to realize that their voices are not merely voices of the future but also a part of the present.

Conclusion:

The event successfully concluded with a discussion exploring the importance of young voices and the problems they have to face to be heard in the society. The shared experiences and opinions from all the speakers highlighted that age and experience do not matter if their opinions and ideas are valid. 'Youth Unfiltered' successfully created an outlet for youths to speak up and recognized their potential. This event ended with a shared commitment to create comfortable environments where the voices of youth are heard and valued.

Feedback:

Interactor Aarusi K.C stated, "This event has helped me realize how much young voices have been oppressed till now. I hope these types of events are organized more often, as it pushes youths to voice their opinions and creates a platform for them to share their opinions freely."
