Introduction

The group assembled near the Budhanilkantha Temple at 08:00 AM to begin the hike. Shortly after setting off, the group began to spread out, taking slightly different trails along the way. Due to unfamiliarity with some of the pathways, a few participants faced minor navigation challenges. While a part of the group visited a local monastery (Gumba) along the route, others continued directly towards the main checkpoint. Despite the brief separation on the lower trails, the entire team successfully reunited at the Shivapuri Nagarjun National Park entry gate by 11:00 AM, where tickets were purchased.

Although the initial plan was to hike up to Tare Bhir, the team mutually decided to adjust the destination to Nagi Gumba to better accommodate everyone's physical capacity and pace. The trail inside the national park offered scenic views, featuring several natural water springs (jaranas) and lush landscapes. The group maintained a steady pace and reached Nagi Gumba between 01:00 PM and 01:30 PM.

Upon reaching the monastery, the team took a well-deserved break to rest, eat snacks, and enjoy the panoramic views. The stop was also used for group photography to document the journey. The descent began shortly after. The core group arrived back at the base of the trail by 03:00 PM. However, due to confusion regarding the final meeting point, some members of the team took longer to arrive, extending the total wrap-up time for the event.

BEYOND THE BLUEPRINTS

Project Summary

The best part of the hike wasn't just the trail—it was getting to hang out and bond with everyone from the other clubs. Walking up the trail together, stopping by the natural water springs, and finally catching that amazing view at Nagi Gumba gave everyone the perfect chance to relax, chat, and get to know each other. Passing around snacks, helping each other out when the climb got tough, and crowding together for group photos really broke the ice and brought the clubs closer together. It made the whole experience feel less like a tough trek and more like a great day out with friends.

Attendees Feedback:

Itr. Pujan Yadav's feedback:

The hiking event organized by ICMB was a good experience overall. However, the destination change in the middle of the hike made the journey a little difficult. But we learned and enjoyed a lot from this. We appreciate the effort of ICMB team. ❤️

The hiking program was enjoyable and well-organized. However, the destination was changed during the trip, which was a little confusing. It would be helpful if any changes could be communicated in advance. Overall, it was a good experience.
