About

Learning for Safety, Growing with Ethics – Safety Training Program

Introduction:

On 02 October 2026, the Interact Club of SOS Hermann Gmeiner School Bharatpur successfully organized a special safety training program for Grade 9–12 students. The event was led by the DSP and focused on building knowledge, responsibility, and practical preparedness among young people.

After the recent devastating floods and landslides in Nepal caused by glacial lake outburst and heavy rainfall (including the Bhotekoshi disaster about one month earlier), the need for proper safety awareness and emergency protocols became very clear across the country. Keeping this in mind, the Interact Club decided to conduct a meaningful training session that would help students understand both ethical responsibility and practical safety measures during disasters such as floods, landslides, and fire.

Project Summary:

The program began with a formal session conducted by the DSP. In this first part, students were taught about basic human ethics, the importance of responsibility during emergencies, awareness of recent disasters in Nepal, and essential safety measures and preparedness protocols that should be followed after such disasters. After the theoretical session, students moved to the practical segment. Under the direct guidance of the DSP and supporting officers, they received hands-on training on how to use a fire extinguisher correctly. Students practiced the proper steps of operating the extinguisher and learned important safety techniques related to fire and other emergency situations.

The training was not limited only to SOS Hermann Gmeiner School students. Students from the local community, Polar Star School, one government school, and other nearby schools were also present and actively participated. The mixed participation made the event more vibrant and helped spread the message of safety beyond one school.

Overall, the program successfully combined knowledge, ethics, and practical skills. Students left the session more aware, more confident, and better prepared to respond responsibly during emergencies.
