About “Feeding Little Angles”

Introduction:

The Blood Donation Program was successfully organized on 10 October 2026 at Chaubiskothi Chowk, Bharatpur, Chitwan, through the joint efforts of the Rotary Club of Narayani Midtown, Rotaract Club of Narayani Midtown, Rotaract Club of Saptagandaki Campus, Interact Club of Little Flower, and Interact Club of Narayani Public School. The program received technical support from the Regional Blood Transfusion Center, Nepal Red Cross Society, Bharatpur, Chitwan. The main objective of the program was to collect blood to help patients in need and raise awareness about the importance of blood donation. It also aimed to encourage a spirit of service, cooperation, and humanity among people. The program reflected the commitment of Rotary, Rotaract, and Interact members to serving the community and saving lives.

Summary:

The Blood Donation Program was conducted successfully with the active participation of Rotarians, Rotaractors, and other members of the community. The event provided an opportunity for eligible individuals to donate blood and contribute to saving the lives of patients who require blood for medical treatment. Members from the participating clubs worked together to support the program and ensure its smooth operation. The technical support provided by the Regional Blood Transfusion Center, Nepal Red Cross Society, Bharatpur, Chitwan, played an important role in facilitating the blood donation activities. The program demonstrated the importance of teamwork and collaboration among different Rotary-family clubs in addressing community needs.

Despite having examinations, five Interactors from Narayani Public School attended the program and actively participated in the volunteering activities. As they were under 18 years of age and therefore not eligible to donate blood, they contributed by assisting with the event and supporting the overall arrangements. Their participation demonstrated a strong sense of responsibility, dedication, and willingness to serve the community even during a busy academic period. The presence and cooperation of Rotarians and Rotaractors further strengthened the program and encouraged a shared spirit of service. Overall, the event was a meaningful initiative that highlighted the value of voluntary blood donation and the collective efforts required to make community service programs successful.

Conclusion

The Blood Donation Program was a meaningful initiative that promoted humanity, kindness, and community service. The active involvement of Rotarians, Rotaractors, Interactors, and community members contributed to its successful completion. The program highlighted the importance of voluntary blood donation in saving lives. The Interactors of Narayani Public School also demonstrated their commitment by volunteering despite their examinations. The collaboration among the participating clubs made the event fruitful and inspiring. Such initiatives encourage people to work together for the welfare of society and create a positive impact on the community.

Feedback

1. Rotary President (Rtn. Bhupendra Shrestha) : The program was a valuable opportunity to serve the community and help save lives. The cooperation among the participating clubs made the event meaningful and successful.
2. Secretary of Our club (Itr. Prasiddha Raj Upadhyay) : Volunteering in the blood donation program was a rewarding experience. Although we could not donate blood because we were under 18, we were happy to support the event and contribute to a good cause despite our examinations.
