Project Summary:

The Interact Club of Devbhumi, alongside five collaborating clubs, successfully conducted a comprehensive online seminar on Digital Literacy and Freelancing in observance of Rotary International's October theme, Economic and Community Development. Held on October 30, 2026, the virtual event featured Rtn. Roshan Budathoki as a key facilitator and speaker. Tailored for student leaders, young professionals, and aspiring independent workers, the seminar served as a timely response to the growing demands of the modern, borderless digital economy, engaging approximately 40 active participants.

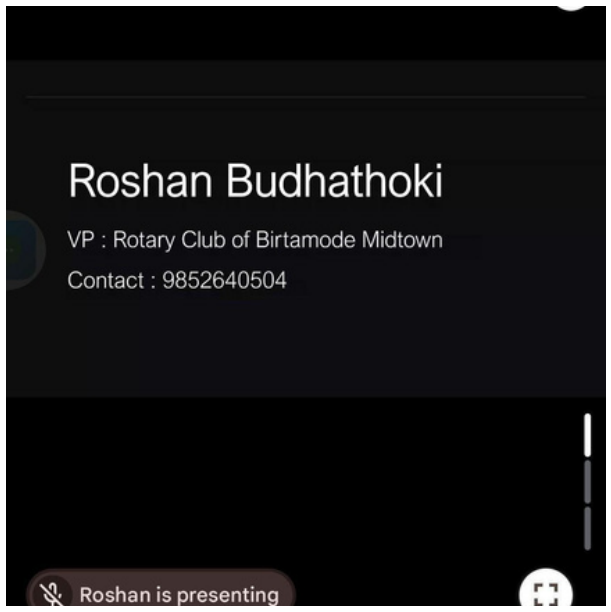

The primary objective of this session was to bridge the digital divide by equipping participants with foundational technological skills and practical knowledge required to navigate online marketplaces. In an era where remote work and digital autonomy are rapidly restructuring traditional career paths, the event sought to demystify the freelancing landscape. Key areas of focus included identifying high-income digital skills, understanding international client acquisition, establishing a professional online presence, and avoiding common pitfalls in the remote workforce.
